FIRST MEETING OF EDUCATORS TO BE AT UNIV. OF KY.

First State Educational Conference Oct. 31 to Nov. 1

WILL REVIEW GAME

National Speakers Are on Interesting Program

The first annual educational conference will be held here October 31 to November 1. Approximately four hundred educators in the colleges and secondary schools of the state are expected to attend.

The conference has been planned to convene the evening before and on the day of the home-coming of alumni of the university and the dedication of the new stadium in order that graduates who are teaching in the state may have the opportunity of attending both events. The conference will be held in the morning and those attending will be free to attend the various home-coming exercises in the afternoon, to go to the football game and the dedication.

Among the prominent speakers who will appear on the program are: Dr. John W. Withers, dean of the college of education, New York University, and former superintendent of schools in St. Louis, Mo.; Prof. J. B. Edmonson, professor of education at the University of Michigan; Prof. McHenry Rhoads, superintendent of public instruction in Kentucky; Prof. Alfred L. Crabb, professor of education, Western Teachers' College, Bowling Green; Dr. M. B. Adams, president of Georgetown college; Dr. T. J. Coates, president of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, Richmond, and Dr. Frank L. McVey.

NEW FEATURES AT UNIV. CAFETERIA

Special Menus Will be Submitted for Parties

The University Cafeteria, located in the basement of the Administration Building, opens at 7:15 in the morning and remains open until after supper in the evening, for the convenience of students who have early morning classes or who are forced to remain on the campus until late in the evening. The Cafeteria has opened a very attractive new dining room for the faculty members and the clerical staff of the university, and has added several new features to the main cafeteria.

A new Century kitchen machine for beating mashed potatoes, baking cakes, making mayonnaise, meringues, etc., has been installed, and new trays have been purchased. The Cafeteria buys only the highest quality of food materials and the service is excellent.

Miss Lillie Kohl, who is in charge of the Cafeteria, gives personal supervision to the cooking, planning, and buying of the food, and under her capable management the meals should please even the most fastidious. The Cafeteria prices are most reasonable and all university students should patronize it, as they will find it to their advantage to receive the highest quality food at the lowest possible prices.

Miss Kohl is ably assisted by Miss Gault and Mr. Travis, a student, who is steward of the store-room. Any one wishing to entertain guests or a party may make reservations with Miss Kohl for the private dining room, and a list of special menus are submitted for such occasions.

NOTICE

Due to the increased amount of copy necessary to publish the Kernel, and in consideration of the fact that the type is now set on the campus, the deadline will be moved to Tuesday afternoon. All reporters will get their copy in before that time and copy and proof readers will begin work Tuesday afternoon. This regulation is important and must be strictly adhered to.

BLUE AND WHITE TO ADORN LIMESTONE

Fraternities Are Asked To Place Flag Poles

In the future the blue and white streamers of our Alma Mater will adorn Limestone street—that is—if the fraternities and sororities will co-operate with the American Legion in placing flag poles in front of their respective homes. This plan has been adopted by the merchants in the downtown district and has proved successful. On national holidays Old Glory will be seen at the top of the pole; then on days when the Wildcats battle with opposing teams, the Blue and White will lend inspiration and encouragement to those playing in its defense.

The American Legion has placed flags on the new stadium which was used for the first time last Saturday when the 'cats were victorious over the Cardinals of the University of Louisville. When the fraternities and sororities have adopted this plan it is hoped that the other residents of South Limestone will be sufficiently interested to adopt the plan, thereby giving their support to the university. A representative of the American Legion will call on the members of the various fraternities soon with this project in view.

STROLLER ROOMS TO OPEN MONDAY

Tryouts to Take Place From October 20 to 24

The new Stroller rooms on the campus will open Monday and will remain open the rest of the week, in order that the students who wish to try out for the organization may obtain necessary information. The tryouts will take place October 20 to 24. The three best plays presented during the try-outs will be given on Amateur night, October 31, before the student body, and judges will be invited to select the best of these three plays a prize will be awarded to the winning skit.

The Stroller rooms, in the west end of the recently reconstructed women's old gymnasium, to the east of White Hall, have been re-decorated and will be formally opened Monday, when try-out plays will be distributed by Mr. Gardner Bayless, Director.

TRYOUTS FOR GLEE CLUB BEGIN OCT. 9

Director Lampert is Pleased With Prospects

An unusual amount of fine material for the Men's Glee Club is at the university this year. According to Prof. C. A. Lampert, head of the department of music, this will be the best organization this year that the university has ever had.

Fifty-five candidates have presented themselves for membership, the majority of them being tenor voices. Final try-outs for the club will start Thursday, October 9, and within the next two weeks the number will be cut to the usual twenty-four voices. The reason for beginning glee club work so early in the season is that no opera will be presented by the department of music this year.

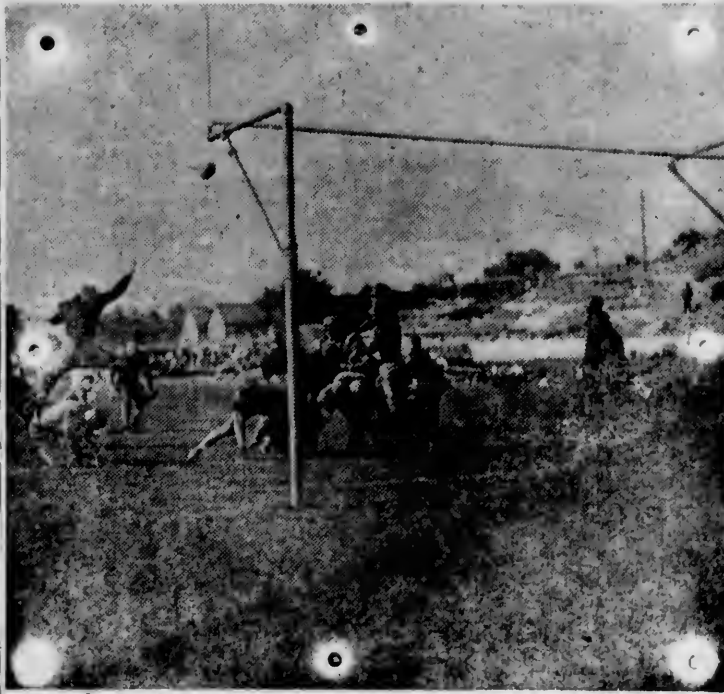

Plans of the Club

Professor Lampert expects to make a tour with the club about December 1, taking in the principal towns of eastern Kentucky, where the club has never before appeared. He also plans to have the club assist the band in entertaining between the halves at football games. The usual spring tour, which goes into western Kentucky, will take place in early March. Neither the fall nor the spring schedule have as yet been arranged.

In place of the opera, Professor Lampert plans to give an oratorio in connection with the May Festival. It will possibly take two days to present this oratorio, in which the men's and women's glee clubs, with solo voices, will participate.

NOTICE

All students who did not give correct addresses on information cards are asked to do so at once and leave them at the registrar's office.

FIRST GOAL KICKED IN NEW STADIUM

Y. M. WITH Y. W. IN FINANCE DRIVE

All Students Invited to Join Friendship Council

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet Tuesday, October 7, at 7 p. m., in the university Y. M. office, three important matters were brought up for discussion and decided upon. The first meeting of the Friendship Council was set for next Tuesday at seven o'clock. The cabinet also adopted a new Statement of Purpose and laid plans for a financial campaign to be staged jointly with the Y. W. C. A.

The Friendship Council holds meetings once every two weeks in the reading room of the Y. M. C. A. in the old gymnasium building. It is a gathering of all university students who are interested in the work of the Y. M. Before this Council are brought up the recommendations of the executive cabinet, or suggestions of its own members for discussion, and if approved are carried out by the various committees or by the Council as a whole. Bart Peak, Y. M. C. A. secretary, has received from the State Y. M. office names of many freshmen who have been active in Y organizations throughout the state during their high school careers. Effort is being made to get all these to come to the meetings of the Friendship Council. All students of the university who are interested in the Y are invited.

In the coming membership drive which starts in November, students will be asked to sign a new statement of purpose, which embodies the following resolutions:

1. To lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ.
2. To lead them into membership and service in the Church.
3. To promote their growth in Christian faith, especially through the study of the Bible and by prayer.
4. To influence them to devote themselves in united effort with all Christians to make the will of Christ effective in human society, and to extend the Kingdom of God throughout the world.

These principles are universal in their scope and raise no denominational barriers whatsoever.

The two organizations working jointly to attain the same end can achieve more than if each worked separately consequently the Y. M. and Y. W. will conduct a joint financial drive. This plan should result in greater success in the campaign for each of these two worth-while organizations.

DEAN SARAH BLANDING MEETS WITH FRATERNITY WOMEN

A meeting of all the fraternity women of the university was held at 3:30 Monday afternoon at the new gymnasium, when Miss Sarah Blanding, dean of women, discussed with the girls the rules for the school year.

A meeting of the house mothers of the sororities was held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in White Hall. Miss Blanding talked with them in regard to the rules now in effect in the sorority houses.

EDUCATION CLUB IS REORGANIZED

Officers Elected and Installed; Dr. Terrell Speaks

The first meeting of the Education Club for this year was held Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Assembly Room of the University High School. About fifty people were present, including the teachers and students of the college of education. Dr. Glanville Terrell, head of the department of philosophy, was the speaker of the evening. He took as his subject, "Some Comparisons in Education." Dean W. S. Taylor announced that Dr. W. R. Jilison, state geologist, would speak at the next meeting, on "State Parks."

The officers for the coming year were elected: O. F. Galloway, president; Miss Mary Lee Taylor, vice-president; Miss Ruby Rush, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. Somers, of the education faculty, honorary president.

Dr. Terrell, in his address, stated that there "is no royal road to learning," now, in the past, or in the future. He contrasted the learning of today with the learning of our predecessors. In the days when Greece was bowing low to Athena and the Parthenon was the shrine of devotion, there was comparatively so little to know that one brilliant man could be an authority on all subjects, while in this day of specialization one cannot learn all there is to know in his particular line of study. Dr. Terrell stated that people of this era should follow more closely the "round table" method of study.

Following the principal address, Dean Taylor, Dr. Noe and Dr. Somers were called on for impromptu speeches. Dr. Somers endeavored to explain the phrase "put in." He said he used to think that to "put something into" work meant simply to contribute, but that he had come to realize that the term means not only to give but to receive, and that the Education Club would answer both purposes. Dr. Noe said that many values lie outside of the classroom and that discussion of things was the most important. He gave an example, "Canterbury Club," which was organized twelve or fifteen years ago at the university. Dean Taylor urged increased attendance. He said the value derived would be in proportion to the attendance.

STUDENTS AT THE POLLS TO SUPPORT THE BOND ISSUE

Approximately two hundred students will be selected from the History and Political Science department of the university within the next week to be stationed at the polls in every precinct in Fayette county on election day. They will try to persuade every citizen to vote for the bond issue. Party affiliations will not be considered. The effort is being made merely to set before the citizens as they come to vote, the extreme importance of voicing their opinions on the issue.

DEANS OF WOMEN TO CONVENE HERE

General Subject for Discussion to be "Citizenship"

The annual convention of the deans of women of approximately twenty colleges and high schools in Kentucky will be held Monday and Tuesday, October 27 and 28, at the University of Kentucky. Miss Katherine Bowersox, dean of women at Berea, will preside.

The general subject for discussion will be "Citizenship." Fundamentals and ideals for high school girls and college women and ideals for law enforcement will be discussed. A report of the Women's Foundation for Health will be made and its program set forth. Placement Bureau methods and vocational guidance speakers for high schools and colleges will be discussed.

Miss Sarah Blanding will entertain the visitors at a luncheon on Monday. Monday evening they will be entertained at Patterson Hall as guests of the university. Mrs. McVey will act as hostess for an all-day meeting and luncheon at her home on Tuesday.

'25 KENTUCKIAN IS IN PROGRESS

Manager Promises Annual in Early Spring

Preparations for the 1925 Kentuckian are now under way, according to the reports from the business manager and editor-in-chief, who are undertaking to put out the book this year for the top price of $5.

As the manager and editor are working under a great handicap, due to the late distribution of the 1924 Kentuckian, co-operation on the part of the student body or staff will be greatly appreciated. A man will call at each fraternity and sorority house with junior and senior information cards in the near future and the Kentuckian asks that all fraternities and sororities have their chapter rolls ready and that they fill out the cards immediately.

These cards will be taken up at the time the pictures are made. The photographer will call at each fraternity and sorority house, spending one day at each house. The Kentuckian photograph began making the rounds of the houses Monday, October 6, and as the management of the Kentuckian is pursuing this plan for the convenience of the fraternity men and women, all members of these organizations should see that their pictures are made on the day when the photographer calls.

The Kentuckian photographer will also be on the campus for two weeks in the basement of the Education building for the benefit of non-fraternity men and women and for other organizations.

The popularity contest for the 1925 Kentuckian will determine who are the three most popular girls of the upper classes and the one most beautiful girl in the university. The contest will be held Tuesday, October 28. Any other information in regard to the 1925 Kentuckian may be obtained at the office, in the west end of the women's old gymnasium.

GREAT EXPANSION IN MILITARY FIELD

New Companies are Formed to Care for Increase

Increased interest in military science is evidenced by the 875 enrolled in the unit, which number exceeds that of preceding years by thirty-nine enrolled in the second year advanced course and by sixty enrolled in the first year advanced course.

Sergeant Kennedy has organized a sixty-piece band, and Ed Gans, the popular and much admired drum major, will again lead the aggregation.

The band will be equipped with leather puttees, and the consensus of opinion of the cadets will determine whether or not all cadets shall wear leather puttees.

The War Department contemplates changes in the course of instruction in the military department which will be in effect next year.

TIGERS TO MAKE TWENTY SECOND BID FOR VICTORY

Kentucky Clashes With Georgetown Tomorrow

TO BE GOOD GAME

Sauer to Play Despite Injury in Louisville Game

Saturday afternoon the Tigers of Georgetown College will invade the lair of the Wildcats in an endeavor to wrest victory from the blue-clad warriors, who since 1891 have turned them back twenty-one times, with the pall of defeat hanging over them. The Tiger has grown lean of frame during that long span. Only five times have his claws reached the sleek sides of the 'cat and never has the victory been his.

In '98, when the country was engaged in its little brush with Spain, the closest call was made, with Georgetown on the short end of a 12 to 4 count. Since 1918, when the two schools resumed football relations after a lapse of seven years, the game between the institutions has been held early in the season and some ragged football has resulted. This year, with a more polished team at Kentucky and with Georgetown showing early season strength, a more interesting struggle is promised. The tilt of last year was won by a score of 35-0. In the twenty-one games played, Kentucky has scored 629 points against 23 for Georgetown.

Reports are that Coach Hovater's charges are stronger than they have been for several seasons. Last Saturday they held the University of Cincinnati to a 33-21 score. The game showed the passing combination of Long to Robinson working well and long gains were scored by the aerial route. Robinson, diminutive quarterback, also made nice gains by his broken field running. Daniel at end is another veteran whose work is always good.

Murphy's charges showed lack of a strong defense against passing in the game with Louisville and a good passing attack will give them a lot

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR FROSH TEAM

"Wonder Team" of 1922 is Aim of Coach Ecklund

Seventy-five Kittens responded to the first call of Coach Ecklund for candidates for the freshman football squad. About sixty of this number have been retained, and the present team is promising, being composed of stars from various high schools throughout Kentucky.

In the game Monday between the freshmen and the varsity, the young 'cats held their own like veterans. The line is unusually strong this year, in fact, there is a great deal of splendid material out for each position.

Gayle Mohny, a fast and capable end, was injured in a recent scrimmage, but it is hoped he will be in uniform and will be able to take his place soon.

The following players are out for the respective positions:
Ends: Martin, Champ, Shulte, Travor, Mohny, Hall.
Tackles: Edwards, Stevenson, Hickerson.

Guards: Belt, Arnold, Shropshire, McKenivan, Bronough.

Centers: Linbad, Pence, Maloney. Quarterback: Jenkins, Chambers, Brown.

Halfback: Van Arsdale, Ellis, Cox, Kirkendall.

Fullback: Ross and Phipps.
The Kittens are under the capable tutelage of Coach Raymond Ecklund, whom university officials were fortunate in securing. Coach Ecklund was chosen as all-Western Conference end due to his brilliant playing on the University of Minnesota team.

Alumni Notes

Editor—Alumni Secretary

WHAT SHALL OUR ANSWER BE?

Out in the wilderness of ignorance, feeble-mindedness, juvenile criminals, adult criminals and trails impassable by modern conveyance, loud voices are heard as in one great chorus, crying out, "O, Citizens of Kentucky, What Will You Do in Order that We May be Saved and Made Whole?"

Boys and girls in every section of our state deserve far better educational facilities than they have; conditions existing in our feeble-minded institute are so bad that the mere recitation of them will cause the heart of any true Kentuckian to bleed; the young people confined in the reform school have a curse cast upon them from the moment they enter its walls until the day of their discharge, because of the state's failure to make proper provisions for their moral, physical, mental and spiritual training; the penitentiaries are worse than they were at their formation over one hundred years ago; and the trails over which our forefathers rode horseback are all too well known to need comment.

There is one, and only one, way at present to answer their question, and this is to work and vote for the $75,000,000 bond issue. Not even the bond issue's most ardent supporter will claim this answer to be perfect. He knows that by it not all roads can be built, not all schools completed and equipped as they should be and none of the other beneficiaries of this plan can secure perfect conditions. Nothing has been offered to take its place. Shall we deny at this time the future generation the betterment of these conditions which it is our privilege to remedy?

Ballard County

One of our alumni from Ballard county who a few weeks ago was strongly opposed to the bond issue, writes under the date of October 2 as follows: "The tide is turning for the bond issue in west Kentucky. An active campaign will mean many votes for it. An organization is necessary to poll the vote. There are several influential men here who are now committed to the cause," and "It is possible to make an even break in this county by active organization and campaigning between now and the election."

McCracken County

An alumnus from McCracken wrote two months ago that he was unalterably opposed to the bond issue and stated that "McCracken county will defeat it by a five to one vote." On September 29 he writes as follows, "Since our correspondence of some weeks ago, I have given considerable time and study to the question of the bond issue and I have definitely decided to use my vote and what influence I have in favor of the bonds. Not the least of the considerations that have influenced me is the fact that it is the only way I can now see to provide funds for the expansion of the university. I do not think it is the ideal way but we must face conditions as they are and not as we would have them, and I see no relief for the state institutions at the hands of the legislature. Sentiment in favor of the bonds is growing rapidly in this section. The Governor's visit has given rise to considerable discussion. A great many people are changing their minds and if we had three more months to work I believe there would be no question as to the result in the First District."

HOME-COMING AND DEDICATORY EXERCISES

November 1, 1924, has been chosen as Home-Coming Day for the alumni because it is thought that all will want to be present to see the stadium and to witness the football game between Centre college and the university. The tentative program is:

Forenoon—Those who desire may attend the educational conference, and others may pass the time as they choose.

12:00, Noon—Luncheon for all Law alumni and their friends at the Phoenix hotel.

1:30—Exercises dedicating the stadium.

My Old Kentucky Home—University band.

Presentation—Capt C. C. Culhoun, president of the alumni association.

Acceptance—Judge R. C. Stoll, chairman board of trustees, University of Kentucky.

Star Spangled Banner—University band.

2:00—Centre college vs. University of Kentucky.

An unusual amount of interest is already being shown in this program. Hundreds of reservations have been made for seats and the present outlook is that the 10,000 seats in the stadium will not accommodate more than sixty per cent of the crowd.

The Lexington Alumni Club will hold its first regular meeting of the season at the Lafayette Hotel, October 11, at 12:00 m. The program will be given in honor of the new members of the coaching staff, who are: Fred J. Murphy, varsity coach; Ray Ecklund, freshman coach; C. O. Applegran, head coach of basketball and track; and Frank Mann, trainer. Dr. J. S. Chambers is president of the club this year.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION University of Kentucky, Lexington

ROMANY WILL OPEN FOR SECOND YEAR

"To the Ladies," Will be First Production

"To th Ladies," by Mark Conley and George Kaufman, the first play of the season to be presented at the Romany Theatre, will begin Monday, October 20. This play is a charming story of a typical American youth, and his charming wife from the south. It is said to present valuable information that every woman knows and that every single man should know.

The part of Leonard Beebe is being played by Oskar Hambleton and that of his wife by Miss Mary Fuqua Turner. Other prominent parts are those taken by Mrs. J. Von Engleton, Mrs. Kinkead, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Bayer, James Mallard and Miss Mary Pulliam.

This production is being presented under the direction of Miss Mary Lyons and Mr. James Davidson. Miss Claribel Kay, former student of the university, has taken over the management of the theatre for the season. Seats are now on sale at the box office.

THE SU-KY CIRCLE PROCURES SELLING RIGHTS AT GAMES

The Su-Ky Circle, booster club of the university, has leased the privilege of the sale of foodstuffs and confections at all football games to L. E. Griffing, of Lexington. He will employ students who are working their way through school. A member of the Circle supervises the sales at all games and assists in keeping the books. A percentage of the sales goes to the Su-Ky Circle, which will be used to defray expenses which are incurred in holding pep meetings, entertaining members of visiting football teams and other incidentals in boosting the university.

The Su-Ky Circle will have charge of the sales of ribbons and miniature footballs tied with university colors. These will, however be sold within the gates leading to the stadium and students wishing to purchase colors are asked to wait until they are up on the grounds before buying, as those selling ribbons outside the grounds are in no way connected with the university. Ribbons will be sold at a reasonable rate and students are asked to "sport their colors" at all games.

JOURNALISTS TO PLEDGE

Alpha Delta Sigma, honorary men's journalistic fraternity, will hold its pledging exercises Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the journalism rooms. The exercises will be followed by a dinner at the Tiptoe Inn.

Saturday, Oct. 11—Sigma Nu house dance from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Rodgers-Allen

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rodgers of Midway, announce the marriage of their daughter, Ruth, to Mr. James S. Allen, of Maysville. The ceremony took place Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Louisville, with only a few friends present at the wedding.

Miss Rodgers attended the university for the past two years and was one of the outstanding members of her class. Her winning personality and charming manner won for her a host of friends. She was a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

Mr. Allen is the son of Mr. J. M. Allen. He was a junior in the college of engineering. He made his "K" in track last year and was one of the team's most valuable men. He was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. Both are from prominent families of Kentucky and have been popular in university social life.

Stewart-Walker Players

The Stewart-Walker Players, whom it had been hoped would come to Lexington during the month, will not appear, but Mr. Walker has written that he will come in the spring and will bring his entire company.

These players were to have appeared at the Romany theatre during the week of October 6, in "To the Ladies," but due to the fact that the play will also appear at the Opera House and that other attractions in the races and the football game Oct. 11, Mr. Walker felt that it would not pay to bring the company here at this time.

The members of the active chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity will entertain with a dance at their chapter house Saturday evening October 18 in honor of their pledges.

Delta Delta Delta announces the pledging of Elizabeth Gaitskill, of Paris, Tuesday, October 8.

The members of the active chapter of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity entertained with a dance in honor of their pledges at their chapter house Saturday.

The house was beautifully decorated in blue and gold paper streamers on which were miniature "goats." During the evening as a special number honoring the pledges, the "A. T. O. Girl" was played, during which only pledges and their partners were allowed on the floor.

Members of the active chapter are Karl Rohs, John Dabney, Thomas Campbell, James Ellis, Ben Kievit, Hugh Meriwether, Arthur Bickel, B. G. King, W. S. King, Lorenzo Williams, James Augustus, P. P. Baker, Ralph Taylor, Lloyd Kicken, James Colvin, Albert Harbold, Arthur Morris, Joe Roberts, Truman Rumberger, Wiley Bell, Wallace Shropshire, Foster Adams, Stanley Griffiths, Ford Ogden, Floyd Ogden, Floyd Arnold, Watson Armstrong, Edward Wiley. The pledges are: Houston Meyers, Paul Jenkins, John Lair, Lloyd Terrell, James Patterson, William Zopf, Albert Nelson, Lewis Voiers, Wallace Grammer, David Shropshire.

The active chapter of Sigma Beta Upsilon sorority will entertain Friday afternoon October 17, with a tea dance at Patterson Hall in honor of its pledges.

Joy Pride, Youngest Woman

Joy Pride, the child prodigy of the Louisville Girl's High School, entered the university this year at the age of fifteen. She was graduated from high school with a perfect scholastic record. Miss Pride was pledged to the Kappa Delta sorority and expects to work toward a B. S. in Chemistry. Miss Pride's only rival is Roscoe Kash, who also entered at the age of fifteen and expects to receive a degree in June, 1925.

"To the Ladies"

Added to the cast of "To the Ladies," Romany theatre production, are: Mr. James Mallard, who will play Tom Baker; Miss Nelle Pulliam; Miss Eleanor Morse, Mr. Moss and Mrs. Sandless.

The play promises to be one of the most charming productions ever given in the theatre, and several beautiful musical numbers are being planned for the performance. "To the Ladies" will be presented the week of October 20, at the Romany.

Woman's Pan-Hellenic Banquet

The annual Woman's Pan-Hellenic banquet will be given October 25 at the Phoenix hotel, from 7 to 10:30 o'clock.

The following assistants to the society editor of the Kernel have been chosen and are requested to meet in the Kernel office, Monday at the fifth hour for assignments.

Marcia Lampert, Lucy Sharpe, Louise Adkins, Edna Lewis Wells, Lottie Mae Rogers, Mavis Sternberg, Nellie Clay Corbin, Judith Yungblut and Lois Heath.

The following invitations have been received by Lexington friends:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Ellis request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Elizabeth to

Mr. Henry Alexander Taylor on Monday evening, October the Twentieth
Nineteen hundred and twenty-four at seven o'clock
First Baptist Church
Sturgis, Kentucky.

Miss Ellis was graduated from the university last June and was a participant in many of the social activities on the campus.

Mr. Taylor was graduated at mid-year, 1923. He was one of the foremost members of his class.

Mrs. Frank L. McVey addressed the literature department of the Woman's Club Friday afternoon, Oct. 3, at the home of Mrs. J. G. Van Deren on Walnut street, Cynthiana. Her subject was, "The Relation of Literature to Life, and Life to Literature." Mrs. McVey's address opened the season of the Woman's Club of Central Kentucky. After the meeting Mrs. McVey was the dinner guest of Mrs. Mattie Sprake Barr.

Personals

Misses Virginia Lyons, Ruth Truman, Elizabeth Wetherly, Helen Anderson and Mildred Scheirich, all of Louisville, were here Saturday for the football game.

Thomas Young, '24, a dabbler in art, and now a teacher at Peak's Mill, was on the campus Saturday viewing the Russian art exhibit.

Miss Luella Latta, of Ludlow, grand vice president of the Delta Delta Delta sorority, spent a few days at the chapter house on East Maxwell street.

Mr. Carol M. Sax, head of the department of art, is planning a trip abroad. He will leave in January for Europe, where he will remain for several months, having been granted leave from the university.

Miss Elizabeth Arrasmith, '19, of Louisville, was with her sorority sisters last week at the Alpha Gamma Delta house on South Limestone.

Lawrence Soper, '22, and Byron "Speedy" Propps, '22, graduates of the college of engineering, were visitors here Saturday at the Alpha Sigma Phi house. Both have prominent positions with the Kansas Gas and Electric Company at Wichita, Kan.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Y. W. C. A. Cabinet held its regular weekly business meeting Tuesday night at seven-thirty at Patterson Hall. Mrs. McVey led the members in the discussion or a questionnaire sent out by the Southern Council of the Y. W., dealing with such topics as "The Race Problem," "The Industrial Girl of Today," and "Real Y. W. Activities."

The business session followed and plans were completed for the activities of the coming week. Beginning Monday, Oct. 12, there will be a two-day membership drive on the campus for the benefit of the new girls of the university. Beth Huddleston, chairman of the membership committee, will be in charge, and she will be assisted by the cabinet and sub-cabinet of the Y. W. C. A.

Plans are also under consideration for a joint Y. M. and Y. W. hike for tonight. All those desiring to go are to meet in front of the new gym, tonight (Friday) immediately following the Pep Meeting.

Thursday afternoon, at four-thirty, there will be a tea at the Lexington Y. W. C. A. in honor of Miss Elizabeth McFarland, a Y secretary of much note, from South America. Miss McFarland is now in the States to tell the girls here of the work being done in the South American fields, and to give them an insight into the lives and interests of the young women there. Invitations have been mailed to the girls in the halls and fraternity houses.

Sunday night there will be a special song service by the Y. W. at Patterson Hall. Mrs. P. K. Holmes is in charge of the program, which is to be informal. Refreshments will be served at the close of the service.

Y. W. OFFERS CONTEST

Prizes are Offered for the Most Attractive Rooms

The Y. W. C. A. will begin a campaign among the students of the three residence halls next month for the improvement of the appearance and the comfort of rooms. A series of posters carefully planned by some of the students will be placed in each hall suggesting attractive ways for re-arranging and decorating rooms so they can be made more livable.

A prize will be given to the occupants of the most attractive room in each hall and one for the most attractive of the three winners. Miss Berkley, Miss Blanding, Mrs. Giles and Mrs. Martin will inspect the rooms and will act as judges.

This is merely one of the things which the Y. W. C. A. expects to do this year toward the improvement of the university, and it is hoped that it will receive the co-operation of all the women students on the campus. With their help it will be easy to make the membership one hundred per cent, and to accomplish many other things planned for the year.

Y. M. C. A. AIDS STUDENTS; OBTAINS WORK FOR MANY

To the student whose ambition and industry to acquire a college education is hampered by the lack of necessary funds, the Y. M. C. A. stands out conspicuously as a friend and advisor.

This organization has already obtained work for twenty-four students and expects to place six more during the next week.

Thursday night the first regular religious meeting of the year was held and a very interesting program was given.

NUTRITION CLASSES OPEN

Teachers to Begin Study at Morton Junior High School

The Home Economics department of the university announces the opening of classes in the study of nutrition, to be given to teachers as a co-operative project by the university and the American Red Cross. Miss Nellie Fitzgerald, of the university, will have charge of the work. There will be two classes for teachers who wish to begin the study of nutrition, at 3:40 p. m. Tuesdays, or at 9:00 a. m. on Saturdays, both at the Morton Junior high school.

One class will be for teachers who had the work last year, but who wish to continue with it. This will be at 3:40 p. m., Thursday. The second class may be attended by persons who are interested in this line of work, but not necessarily from a teaching standpoint.

BOYD HALL IS REMOVED TO LOCATION ON EAST MAXWELL

Boyd Hall has been moved from the old dilapidated double house on South Limestone to the lovely home of Mrs. Emily Honaker on East Maxwell street.

Mrs. Honaker turned over her home to the university for the school year; most of the house is furnished with valuable antiques and the rooms with the exception of one are large and they are all comfortable. There are nine bedrooms, a reception hall, sun parlor and two bath rooms. A store-room and small laundry in the rear add very greatly to the convenience of the hall.

The girls are under the chaperonage of Mrs. B. T. Martin, formerly of New York. Mrs. Martin came to Lexington several years ago to be house mother for the Alpha Gamma Delta fraternity. Last year she had charge of Boyd Hall and her success as chaperone is shown by the deep respect and devotion of the girls who lived in the hall.

THE KERNEL AND THE TIMES

In an article appearing in the Louisville Times of September 29th, the Kernel was the object of an attack upon its independence of expression based upon an editorial published on the alumni page in its issue of September 26, under the heading "Shall Kentucky Go Forward?"

The Louisville Times took affront at the editorial because in it was quoted an excerpt from a Courier-Journal article, in which that paper advocated the adoption of a bond issue similar to the proposal to be submitted to the voters of Kentucky in November. In the Louisville Times article this assertion was made: "As president of the university, Dr. McVey occupies the position with the Kernel as does the publisher of a newspaper. The newspaper man who questioned Dr. McVey learned for the first time of a publisher who had nothing to say as to what goes in his publication."

The Kernel feels that an unavoidable duty devolves upon it to state its position so as to dispel the false idea created by the Times article, and reflecting upon President McVey. The Kentucky Kernel is the official organ of the students and alumni of the University of Kentucky. It is their paper. The subject-matter in every issue of the paper is the product of the students who edit it. Its editors are free to comment, as they see fit, on all subjects they believe will interest their readers. The Kernel is not, and it has never been, subservient to any control other than that of the students whose names appear at its masthead. Now, as always in the history of its publication, the Kernel has had the assistance of a faculty adviser; but his province has been one of suggestion alone; and neither he nor anyone else has ever attempted or seemed to desire to attempt to dictate what should be published. Within the limits of courtesy, truthfulness and manly concept of decency, the Kernel has always enjoyed untrammelled freedom. The restrictions imposed upon it have been those generally employed by newspapers. The option to print or not to print have been left to the discretion of the student-editors. For the Times to accuse the Kernel of being under the domination of any influence, other than that of the student body, is false. Any restriction, other than this, would be incompatible with the teachings of a real university and utterly repugnant to the established and well defined tenets of the independent American press.

The argument of the Louisville Times is readily apparent to anyone accustomed to perusing its editorial page. Reasoning based on the most egregious sophistry, deductions based upon premises so weak that they are unable to sustain their own weight, have, in the case of the Times, transformed what was once an ornament to journalism into a derelict, which, together with its emasculated twin, practices a vicious simony that endangers every principle of newspaper ethics. A flagrant example is revealed in the utterly false analogy employed by the Times in likening the president of a great state university to the publisher of a metropolitan daily. As the publisher of a paper is responsible to his readers, and must heed them, so is the Kentucky Kernel responsible to its readers, the university, alumni and students. The Kernel's experience has been uniformly that neither the president nor the faculty of this institution desires to dictate its editorial policy or conclusions, for which high and just attitude toward it the Kernel is both proud and grateful.

THAT'S THAT

(From the Louisville Herald)

The staff of the Kentucky Kernel, voice of the student body and alumni of the University of Kentucky, are their own masters. They are not, directly or indirectly controlled or inspired by Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the university. We have his word as to that and theirs. Either would suffice. The deliberate attempt of an afternoon newspaper to lend another color to the connection and to make of Dr. McVey the responsible publisher of this bright little college weekly, is entirely gratuitous. Not that it need surprise being in line with the broad scope of misrepresentation which spares no one. Whatever these young people say is their own. Can the Times prove as much?

GENTLEMANLY FRESHMEN

When the university re-opened this year for the fall session, under the most auspicious circumstances of its history, the sustenance of its good name was placed in the keeping of eight hundred freshmen students, and we have found already that the trust was not misplaced.

Last Saturday evening a group of these freshmen, hilariously happy after the football victory of the day, entered one of the largest moving picture houses in the city, to give a few yells and to celebrate generally; they were informed at the door that a style show was in progress, and, we presume, were requested to be as quiet as possible. Consequently no one was aware of their quiet entrance except a few of us who belong, and whose hearts were beating in double quick time with proud relief.

At the end of the style show, the manager of the theater congratulated the Kentucky freshmen for their fine courtesy and good conduct, and delayed the continuation of the performance by calling their leader to the stage, where he led a number of Kentucky yells.

To the best of our knowledge, it is the first time in the history of the university that a group of Kentucky students have been congratulated publicly for their good conduct from the stage of a Lexington theater, and it is the desire of the Kernel to publish this acknowledgment of gentlemanly conduct of a student body, so that the rest of us may act in like manner.

Freshmen, the standards of honor for future classes depends upon your individual acts, and we who will soon turn the last curve in the road, look back upon our alma mater with happy satisfaction, because of you who will carry on, confidently knowing that whatsoever shall be given to you to do, will be a task well done.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF A SENIOR

How many of the freshman class will walk across the platform to receive their diplomas in 1928? How many will fall by the wayside of social activities and never rise again? How many will be choked out by the brambles of chemistry and the thorns of mathematics? How many will still be worthy of wearing the Blue and White four years hence?

It is a long time—these four years that make a university senior out of a high school graduate; but withal it is a short time that passes like a cloud across the summer sky. Trials, disappointments, even joys drag out the college days. Then suddenly—Presto! Something happens. The erstwhile freshman has changed his tassel from right to left and passes on, attaining the long sought degree—only a freshman again in the university of the world.

Freshmen have the desire to know all and are interested in everything; sophomores do know all and are interested in nothing. No one knows when the event occurs, but every freshman receives an injection of that peculiar serum known as "sophomore soul," before he enters his second collegiate year. Some of them never recover.

The junior and senior years are less interesting, psychologically speaking, but they are worthy of consideration, nevertheless. The junior regrets the long, long hours he has wasted in serious thought and study. He immediately sets out to remedy this by attending all the hops, balls and proms that the campus affords. But his one ambition is to wear corduroys.

Then comes the fourth year; the student who wore the cunning little blue and white cap the three years past assumes all the dignity which moustache, cane and corduroy can bestow. He is lord of all creation and under classroom tremble beneath his glance; that is, all but the flapper, who plies her lipstick and drops her eyes with becoming modesty. This senior has his rational moments in which he realizes that he is not exactly the "cat's eyebrow," but they do not last long. June comes; he passes on; and in September the drama begins anew.

It is a far cry from freshman to senior, but the time is worth much. Contact, culture, learning, friends—these cannot be measured in monetary values, but they set a stamp upon a man which naught else can.

Again we ask, "How many will have been tried and not found wanting in 1928?"

JUST A WORD

Just as we like to tell our Elaine every time we write to her that her Launcelot still loves her, so every time we put the Kernel on the press we like to tell the Wildcat football team that we're right up here in the stadium yelling for 'em, and we're going to be yelling for 'em till the last cranberry is gone off the Thanksgiving turkey.

A certain business institution downtown has a little sign hanging in the office: "For when the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name, He writes not that you have won or lost, but how you played the game."

Wildcats, that's us all over. We want you to fight, to play the game, and then, whether you win or lose, whether you sink or swim, slip or slide, beat Centre or bust, we're for you. Yours very truly, Signed, Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen, et al.

Say, did you ever feel a tingle run up and down your spine and finally culminate in your ears, pushing the tears out of your eyes, despite all you could do? Did you ever have that feeling when a mighty football warrior was carried down the field with tears streaming down his cheeks, or when the band played "On, on, U. of K." or "My Old Kentucky Home"? Did you ever feel that you wanted to go out on the field and push the ball and help your team win a hard-earned victory?

That is the feeling which all normal men had in April, 1918, when they heard that the United States was going over to win the war, and that is the feeling that all men should have experienced last Saturday afternoon when 5,000 fans were comfortably seated in a stadium built by students and alumni. The stadium which represents sacrifices untold on the part of students; the stadium which took money that would have gone to procure amusements or to buy a new overcoat. Does anyone regret that he sacrificed when he gazes upon the fruits of his labors? We sacrificed—we do not regret.

We have the royally favored in our midst. One of our news-hounds saw the Prince of Wales twice this summer. The first time he wore a dark suit and the last time, at the polo grounds, he wore a gray one. Yes, it was a girl who saw him. And to let us know how she felt about it all, she tells us that she didn't even speak to him.

Across the top of the first page of the last issue of the Centre College "Cento," made more conspicuous by two index fingers pointing toward it, is the statement "Beat State as Usual." Go ahead, Centre, rub it in; we are fat and good natured, we don't mind, but it all seems to us that Georgia Tech was in the same mood last year when she said "practice game."

Last Friday's issue of the "Cento" made this prediction under the caption, "It's Our Guess": "Centre 25, Valpariso 0 Kentucky State 21, Louisville 6." Thank you, Centre, for allowing us to beat Louisville. We feel sure that if your first prediction had run true to form and had not become entangled, led, taking up so much of your time while our game was being played, you would have been able to have prevented your second prediction from erring.

JUDGES SELECT THREE CHEER LEADERS AT "PEP MEETING"

Creech, Nutting and Wise Chosen From 20 Eligibles

Three cheer leaders were chosen from a list of twenty eligibles who tried out at the first "Pep Meeting" of the year, held in the new gymnasium, Friday night, October 4, before the game with Louisville. Robert Creech, Arthur Nutting and Max Wise were selected to direct the student body in its cheering this year. These men were selected by faculty members who acted as judges, after the twenty had led the crowd in yells of their own choosing.

Due to the fact that the cheer leaders had no previous opportunity to lead the cheers in unison, the yells were somewhat ragged. These men, however, demonstrated their ability by the results of vocal exercise from the students.

DR. BUSH SPEAKS TO FROSH

The Rev. Dr. B. J. Bush of the Second Presbyterian Church was the speaker at freshman chapel Tuesday morning. After a reading of scripture by President McVey, Dr. Bush addressed the members of the class of '28 on the religious phase of the university.

He stressed the importance of having a "vision," asserting that although conditions here might be very different from those at home, the faith of the boy or girl who has a "vision" will remain steadfast thru his or her college career.

U. L. IS HELPLESS BEFORE ATTACK

Five Thousand See the Opening of New Stadium

"I guess the boys will hush about my team now," said Coach Fred J. Murphy last Saturday, as his menagerie of Wildcats turned back the University of Louisville aggregation 29-0 in a game that officially opened the University of Kentucky stadium. Approximately 5,000 frenzied football fans packed the new athletic house and saw the unfounded belief of some—that the Kentucky team was weak this year—shattered.

Hughes Makes Great Run

Showing the effect of days and days of ceaseless and careful preparation, the Blue and White men swept the Cardinal and Black before them in the first quarter and assisted by a beautiful thirty-five yard run of "Turkey" Hughes, scored a touchdown within a few minutes of the opening of the quarter. At the beginning of the game, Captain Sanders kicked off to Hawker, but Louisville failed to gain on three thrusts at the line; Osborne kicked to Gregg on Kentucky's ten yard line. After an exchange of punts, Kentucky took the ball and by a series of end runs, center smashes and passes, Sanders took the ball over the chalk line for the first marker. Captain "Sandy" a few minutes later placed the ball between the uprights for a 28-yard placement kick.

In the second quarter, Louisville completed some long passes, using the Keinzle to Osborne and Keinzle to Daugherty combinations effectively, but the necessary scoring power was lacking. During this quarter, Sanders took two of his enemies across the goal line for the second touchdown.

Petie Derrick Stars

The playing of Petie Derrick was the illuminating feature of the fourth quarter. He went in for Sanders at the end of the third quarter, stopped two Louisville plays on the scrimmage line and made four yards thru left tackle before the quarter ended. Petie started off the last period with a nine-yard smash over right tackle and after Smith had made first down, he went through center for four yards and a touchdown. The last touchdown came a few minutes later when Harbold fell on the ball behind the goal line after Curtis Sauer had blocked a Louisville punt.

Defense Good

The game was, as is the characteristic of opening games, ragged. It was marred by fumbles and slowness. The team was not entirely familiar with the plays but this clash will be used as an example in preparation for future games. Judgment of punts by Turner Gregg and Hughes was exceedingly good for the first game of the season and Kentucky punts went for good gains with the exception of one or two. The defensive playing of the entire team was above the average and the offense was fair. Portwood and Sauer probably played the best line game and Hughes and Sanders came in for praise in the backfield. King caught a pass in the second period which netted thirty-five yards. This was one of the shining plays of the afternoon. Louisville's aerial attack was superior to that of the 'cats, but the Blue and White backs side-swiped the Cardinal ends unmercifully and plunged their line to bits.

In a review of the game, the Felines made sixteen first downs to the Cardinals' eleven and the local team made more than 250 yards in scoring their 29 points. Hughes was the high yard-gainer, with Sanders, Smith, Anderson, Tracy, Derrick and Gregg next in order. Sanders' center attack was hard to stop and he

AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By FRANK
K.
HOOVER

A number of football fans from Cincinnati and northern Kentucky sat below us Saturday and talked about Coach Murphy's football team. They said it was the best coached football team they had ever seen on a University of Kentucky gridiron—and that was saying a lot for Coach Fred Murphy and "Daddy" Boles, who was the main tool in prying our coach away from Yale.

Petie Derrick played a whale of a game Saturday. He gained a total of about twenty yards while he was in the fray, and is credited with making a touchdown. His greatest play was a nine yard smash over right tackle. Every Kentuckian is pulling for Petie to make his letter this year, which is almost a certainty, if Saturday's game may be used as a criterion.

Hughes was the greatest ground gainer of the afternoon. He carried the oval for a total yardage of something over eighty, and topped the rest of the backfield by at least twenty-five yards. His aggressiveness is the most of him. "Turk's" going to be a mighty nice backfield man in the Centre game.

Didn't the grass look good on the new playing field Saturday afternoon? The new sod has added the needed tonic to the ground and in a couple of years, this new gridiron will make the ancient Stoll field look sick.

All students were confined to sections N and O but at that the visitors completely filled the remaining section of the stadium. A group of Louisville fans journeyed over on a special train for the game and with them came a well-organized band. The band was small, but their selections were well executed. It was a good natured bunch which came from the Falls City.

Curt Sauer was injured about the head near the end of the game and had to be lifted from the field. Sauer was the boy who broke through the Louisville line and broke up a punt which Harbold fell on for a touchdown.

gained from one to fifteen yards on every smash. Tracy and Hughes ran the ends well, as did Smith, during the time he was in the game.

Keinzle, Louisville Luminary For the Louisville aggregation, the heavy work fell upon the shoulders of Keinzle. This boy is one of the shrewdest quarterbacks we have ever seen on Stoll Field and the manner in which he whipped long passes to his backs was especially brilliant.

Captain Osborne and Daugherty also played well for the visitors.

Taken as a whole, the Blue and White squad played good football—the brand that wins games. Local fans were surprised at the progress Coach Murphy has made with his players. Taking into consideration the poor showing that Centre made against Valparaiso last Saturday, it would seem that the Colonels will have to haul down their colors on November 1.

Here's a good one going the rounds of the journalism department. Miss Amanda Gordon, with several other prominent staff members, was inspecting the new linotype recently installed. "Bobby" gazed at the infernal piece of mechanism for a long time with an incredulous look and then innocently asked the operator, "Please, mister, which end do the Kernels come out of?"

"The Howling Hundred" was a feature of the afternoon. Led by the Rt. Hon. Kyle Whitehead and sometimes by H. R. H. Sanders, this bunch of junior and senior engineers gave vent to their emotions in the form of varied yells. "The Howling Hundred" is the very latest thing in organizations, but as Dean Anderson says, "If you want originality, see an engineer."

Saw George Michler, who served as sports editor for the Kernel last year. He is now with the Courier-Journal and is trying to make another Henry Watterson out of himself.

Saw "Simp" Estes running around the field during the game, snapping pictures of the two teams. Our only hope is that Underwood & Underwood doesn't take him away from the Kernel. Estes is our best bet along the photographic line.

Coach Murphy acted the role of gentleman coach Saturday and sat in the stands while the results of his month's ceaseless labor defeated the beefy Louisville team.

The opening of the stadium would have been complete if "One Eyed" Connolly had been in Lexington and had "crashed" his way into the giant structure. Old "One Eyed" couldn't miss the opener of the world's series in Washington.

The work of Captain Curtis Sanders deserves special note and we are of an opinion that he will displace Wyckoff as the leading fullback of the south before the season has seen many more Saturday night baths.

Tracy's injured ankle did not prove as serious as it was supposed to have been, and his dashing play reflected that fact. Gregg played his customary superior game at safety and made some nice gains in running the ball back. Frank Smith is going to make a smashing half for Coach Murphy.

Keinzle and Daugherty played superior football for the Cards. If every man on the team had been as good as these two, the result might have been different.

CROSS COUNTRY CALL IS ISSUED

Hall Will Not Return Until the Next Session

The prospects for a winning cross-country team at the university this fall do not look as bright as they did this time last year. This prediction is made because of the loss of four of last year's veterans: Hall, Allen, Gorman and Butler.

Ray Hall, who was the best distance runner in the south last year, was not able to return to school this semester, but plans to do so next semester. Hall has never seen his equal in long distance running, and if he had returned this year, Kentucky's chances would have been boosted fifty per cent. Allen was a probable member of the team until last Saturday, when matrimonial ventures cut his name from the list of the school. Butler, an outstanding runner last year, is in school, but due to personal reasons, will not be able to participate in cross-country athletics. Gorman, last year's captain, is not in school. Eligibility rules will also prevent some strong candidates from making the team.

The team this year will be formed around Hendricks and Davidson, letter men from last year, and Brame, who was a freshman last year. Hendrix and Davidson can be counted on to finish among the leaders in every race, while Brame proved his mettle last year in practice, by finishing in front of Hall on several occasions.

At present there are only two meets arranged: the inter-collegiate cross-country run at Lexington, Va., (Washington & Lee University), and the run in Louisville on Thanksgiving Day.

Coach Applegran calls upon every able-bodied man in the university to come out for the team. Candidates will report at the new gymnasium.

MORTAR BOARD DELEGATES MEET

U. of Ky. Chapter to be Host November
6, 7, 8

Mortar Board, senior women's honorary fraternity, will hold its bi-annual convention at the University of Kentucky November 6, 7, and 8. Fifty members are expected, thirty of whom will be delegates.

A number of social events have been planned for the visitors. Thursday morning there will be a meeting of the Council, after which lunch will be served at "As You Like It" tea room. The Woman's League will entertain with tea in the afternoon and in the evening there will probably be some form of entertainment at the Roman. Friday the Pan-Hellenic Council will be host at luncheon, following which the guests will be taken on a tour through the Blue-press. After the drive, tea will be served at the Green Tree.

Friday night a dance will be given at Patterson Hall by the Y. W. C. A. and the Athletic Association. The delegates will be guests of the university Saturday afternoon at the football game, after which Mrs. F. L. McVey will be hostess at tea. The convention will come to a close Saturday night with a formal banquet. Members of the University of Kentucky chapter are: Frances Kane, Margaret Chenault, Rachelle Shacklette, Louise Burke, Judith Yungblut, Mary Stallings, Sarah Thorne, Mary Matilda Beard, Martha Wheeler, Lucile Bush, Mary Louise Norman, Mary Agnes Gordon, Louise Carson, Frances Smith, Elizabeth Cromwell, Betsy Helburn, Bernice Bonar, Elizabeth Galloway, Frances Field Coleman, and Irma Bain.

SPEAKERS' BUREAU IS FOR BOND ISSUE

Students Will Tour State in Behalf of Bill

The Speakers' Bureau has taken for its program this year the subject of the bond issue, in order to create more interest and enthusiasm in regard to this question of public policy. Tryouts for the bureau will be held at a later date.

The organization is made up of students and in previous years it has been their ambition to give the university publicity by going throughout the state, lecturing at clubs, high schools and other places.

Due to the gradual increase in enrollment, it has been found necessary by the authorities of the university to make appropriations for this organization. It has been a difficult matter to impress our needs upon university upon the legislature and to this end the co-operation of the different sections of the state are being sought. The university places much confidence in these speakers and expects that beneficial results will come from their activities.

Students of this organization are selected each year regardless of age or degree. The present members of the organization are: C. M. C. Porter, H. C. Johnson, James Darnell, Kenneth Tuggle.

Mr. Porter, president of the organization, and Mr. Johnson are to speak soon at the Phoenix hotel in favor of the bond issue, and will later speak at Berea college upon the same issue.

HONORARY GRANTS CHARTER AT U. K.

Sigma Upsilon, Literary Fraternity, Installed

Omega Epsilon, local honorary fraternity, recently founded at the university, was granted a charter by Sigma Upsilon, national honorary fraternity May 31, 1924. The installation was postponed until this autumn due to the close of school at that time.

The chapter was installed last week by the Boar's Head chapter of Sigma Upsilon of Transylvania College. Sigma Upsilon is the only honorary literary fraternity existing in this country and is located principally in the major colleges and universities in the south.

From its beginning in the early spring, Omega Epsilon had the support of the english department and the hearty recommendation of the Transylvania chapter, which enabled it to succeed in obtaining a charter from Sigma Upsilon.

The original fraternity was composed of the following men: Malcolm Henry, president; Kenneth Reeves, secretary, Charles T. Razor, treasurer; Joe Davis, Joe K. Hayes, W. K.

EIGHT KENTUCKY MEN ON N. Y. TEAM

At Work With 800 Other Other
College Graduates

Eight University of Kentucky men are members of the big team of eight hundred college graduates who are tackling telephone and radio problems in the research laboratories of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Western Electric Company at 463 West Street, New York. Those who are members are the following: E. L. Baulch, '21; I. G. Wilson, '21; R. C. Haggood, '06; S. O. Roark, '10, who at present is in England; F. H. Graham, '08; H. H. Lowry, '09; J. T. Lowe, '12; and W. C. Kiesel, '06.

Their investigations cover a wide range; while one group makes studies of human speech and hearing, another is at work on improved telephone and radio apparatus, and still others are studying the habits of flying electrons. Their subjects of specialization are physics, chemistry and mathematics. Seven are graduates of the University of Chicago, five of Princeton, five of Johns-Hopkins, and four of Yale. One man holds the degree of Doctor of Science from the University of Manchester, England.

"Industrial research has a growing fascination for the college graduate with a scientific turn of mind," said John Miles, the department's personnel director. "The physicist, the chemist, the mathematician, the engineer are so closely allied with executive and commercial types of mind that each one may profit by the ideas and experiences of the others. Yet each in his own job can concentrate on what interests him most."

The greater variety of work in a large organization fosters individual growth, according to Mr. Miles. As a man's mental life develops, unforeseen changes of interest occur. These may find expression within the organization in changes of work, rather than in seeking a new position with another concern, often attended by loss of prestige and lowered scale of living.

The first fall meeting of the Central Kentucky branch of the American Association of College and University Women will be held at the home of Mrs. F. L. McVey Oct. 14.

HERALD UPHOLDS KERNEL COMMENT ON BOND ISSUE

President McVey Backs
Paper for Free Speech

BOTH SIDES GIVEN

Local Paper Answers
Louisville Times'
Attack

The Lexington Herald of Sunday, October 5, contained the following editorial matter which is here reproduced without additional comment:

HERALD'S EDITORIAL

"The Kentucky Kernel, published every Friday through the college year by the student body of the University of Kentucky, is, as stated in its masthead, 'the official newspaper of the students and alumni of the University of Kentucky.' The names of the students who form the staff of the Kernel are also given on the masthead of the Kernel, and it is a most impressive list of young men and young women.

"One page of the Kernel is headed 'Alumni Notes,' the editor of which is the alumni secretary. On this page the editorial policy of the paper is given as follows:

EDITORIAL POLICY

It is the intent of the authors of this page to give to its readers such news as they think will be of greatest interest. An effort will be made to publish communications sent to this office from alumni whenever the same is possible. Matters concerning the welfare of the state, university and alumni association will be discussed from the editors' point of view. It is not expected that all readers will agree with our ideas and because of this we want them to feel free to use this page to express any contrary views they may have.

"The Herald publishes in other columns on this page an editorial from the Kentucky Kernel under the caption, 'Shall Kentucky Go Forward?' and also publishes an article from the Louisville Times with a Lexington date line, but which reads as if it had been written in the home office of the Times, in accord with the deceptive and dishonest policy of that paper.

"We earnestly urge the readers of The Herald to peruse the editorial from the Kentucky Kernel and the supposititious telegram from the Louisville Times.

"After reading that article in the Times, we sent the following telegram to him whose name is carried at the masthead of the Louisville Times as editor and publisher:

"Lexington, Ky.,

October 1, 1924.

Robert W. Bingham, Editor and Publisher,

The Louisville Times,

Louisville, Ky.:

Do you approve or disapprove article on first page of Louisville Times of September 30 in which it is stated:

"As president of the university, Dr. McVey occupies the position with the Kentucky Kernel as does the publisher of a newspaper. The newspaper man who questioned Dr. McVey learned for the first time of a publisher who has nothing to say as to what goes in his publication."

Please answer collect.

The Lexington Herald,

By Desha Breckenridge, Pres.

"The following answer was received in reply to that telegram addressed to the editor and publisher of the Louisville Times:

"Louisville, Ky.,

October 1, 1924.

Desha Breckenridge,

President Lexington Herald,

Lexington, Kentucky.

Your wire October first received. Judge Bingham out of city.

E. A. Overman."

"Mr. Overman might have added, 'as usual.'"

"Up to this writing no further reply has been received."

"We know nothing personally of the management, conduct or supervision of the Kentucky Kernel. But we believe, as we hope, that the statement as absolutely false in the telegram published in the Louisville Times that:

"As president of the University Dr. McVey occupies with the Kentucky Kernel as does the publisher of a newspaper."

"It would be deceptive for the Kentucky Kernel to carry at its masthead the statement that it represents the student body and the alumni, and have the president of the university publisher, or in a position to exercise supervision and suppression over the publication.

"The most important of all the functions of any university is to train men and women to have the power of independent thought and the habit of independent expression of their own convictions. Kentucky does not want its boys and girls trained to be subservient; Kentucky does not want its future newspaper men and women to be trained to be merely echoes and mouthpieces for anyone who does not publicly bear the responsibility for their utterances, as the Courier-Journal and Times are to Percy Haly.

"The only proper relationship between the students who publish a college paper and the faculty of the college is that between the publisher of a newspaper and its reading public; the faculty has the power, which it should exercise, to reprimand or punish directly if the students overstep the proper bounds of comment and criticism, as readers of a newspaper have the duty and power to punish the publisher who violates the code of ethics that should control and does control reputable newspaper men.

"Students should have, as we believe they have in the University of Kentucky, the right to comment upon any matter. If the action of the faculty or trustees meets with their approbation they should have the right to express their approval, and if it merits their disapprobation they should have the right to say, if it be done in courteous language based on knowledge and analysis of the facts.

"Were it not for the long past record of the Courier-Journal and the Times, when they were owned and edited by men, it would be amusing instead of distressing to have one of those papers publish such an article showing such venom toward the university and so low a view of college journalism as does the Times, at the masthead of which appears the name of Robert W. Bingham, editor and publisher.

"Because the Kentucky Kernel published an editorial in which was reprinted paragraphs from an editorial in the Courier-Journal in 1922, an attack based on absolutely false premise and most vicious logic is published in the evening edition of those two utterly discredited newspapers:

"Think of the insolence, the presumption, of its being published in one of those papers:

"The newspaper man who questioned Dr. McVey learned for the first time of a publisher who had nothing to say as to what goes in his publication."

"Talk about an ostrich putting its head under the sand!"

"The Courier-Journal, from which the Kentucky Kernel quotes paragraphs about the bond issue in 1922, was built up by men who were their own masters, thought their own thoughts and spoke their own words. It gained national conspicuity and national influence because the men who owned and edited it were men of ability and of courage not trained in the school of subserviency, who recognized and acted upon the recognition of their responsibility to the public and to themselves.

"The Courier-Journal and the Times were purchased by Robert W. Bingham, who advertises himself as editor and publisher, and who as editor and publisher is the shadow of a shade, a simulacrum of a publisher, a faint and dim replica of those who made that newspaper respected and influential.

"Prostituting the power which became his solely through the power of money, they are most glaring examples of evil and low journalistic ethics of which we know. Dealing in half truths and innuendo, distorting facts, maligning those they cannot control, they set an example of journalism that should disgust any high-minded youth such as the boys and girls whose names appear on the masthead of the Kentucky Kernel. Under the malign influence of one who has no public connection with them the policy of those papers has been changed overnight, according to statements made to us which if de-now keep their hair smooth, lustrous, always in place

Today, as never before, college men have smooth, well-kept hair.

Why? A few years ago the hair was a nuisance to almost everyone, for it was usually the least attractive part of the appearance—always unkempt and unsightly an hour after being combed.

There was no way, then, to keep it from being so. Old-fashioned pomades only matted it and made it greasy. Water evaporated quickly and left it drier and more unruly than ever.

Today everyone can have smooth, neatly combed hair. Now Stacomb—a delicate, invisible cream for keeping the hair in place—has changed all that.

It is responsible for the amazingly improved appearance of men's hair. And it has made possible for every woman, however "difficult" her hair, the new smooth effect so much in vogue.

In clubs and fraternities, at the theatre or the game, today you can seldom find even one case of unkempt hair.

People who know that the hair can ruin the whole appearance—people who are careful about the way they look—have given Stacomb an important place on their dresser or dressing table.

No matter how dry and straggly your hair may be—no matter how uncontrollable after being washed—Stacomb will keep it always in place, smooth, lustrous, natural. A touch of it in the morning when you comb your hair—and all day long your hair will be just as you want it, for Stacomb will keep it smoothly in place until you go to bed at night.

You can get Stacomb in convenient jars and tubes, at all drug and department stores. Non-staining and non-greasy. Use it tomorrow morning—and look your best all day!

HERALD UPHOLDS KERNEL

nied we will endeavor to prove.
 "Because of the fortune at the command of the editor and publisher, and the policy dictated by him who controls that editor and publisher, those papers are false to every tenet of decent journalism, recreant to every principle inculcated by those who have in the past adorned journalism, false to every principle that the ingenious youths who seek through newspaper work to inform and to lead their fellow citizens hold dear.

"We know in America of no more glaring illustration of the grievous effect of the ownership of a newspaper by one who has no other qualification than the possession of a great fortune than is given by the Courier-Journal and the Times. Regardless of the interests of the state, regardless of the obligation of fair dealing, regardless of any principle of consistency, they attempt to inculcate suspicion and distrust, hatred and enmity, between classes and sections. They possess apparently but one consistent principle—the exploitation of him whose name appears on the masthead as editor and publisher, and the gratification of the ambition of him who dominates the editor and publisher.

Policy is Explained

"One of the teaching staff of the university who is thoroughly acquainted with the policy and purposes of the Kernel and whose attention had been called by the editor of The Herald to the strictures of the Louisville Times, said:

"Of course it is puerile to assume that the president of the university is editor of the Kernel, dictates its policy or has either occasion or inclination to ascertain before publication its contents editorially or otherwise. The Kernel belongs to the student body, is edited by students and its expense of publication is assumed and met by students. It is published for the benefit of students. Its editor discusses topics of interest to students and alumni without suggestion from faculty or president or repression from any source except the uniformly accepted rules that govern free and dignified expression of editorial opinion and presentation of news matter in intelligently edited and respectable newspapers.

"University regulations that control all students of course apply as well to the conduct of those who edit the Kernel. This student paper, however, has an advisor who is a faculty man, and those who conduct the Kernel frequently avail themselves of his advice and suggestions.

"I happen to know that during his presidency, Dr. McVey has not at any time sought to influence the editorial thought of the student paper, nor has he, within that time, had occasion to discipline for unprofessional conduct the young men and women who have been charged with responsibility of its publication."

Editor of U. of K. Paper Given Free Rein, Says McVey
 (Louisville Times)

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 29.—Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, said today that the Kentucky Kernel, a newspaper published by the student body of the institution, has "a free right to say what it thinks," when he was asked concerning an editorial under the caption, "Shall Kentucky Go Forward?" in which the stand of opponents of the $75,000,000 bond issue is criticized.

Asked whether the newspaper published by the student body was under the supervision of officials of the university, Dr. McVey answered, "Not under supervision of the officials; only under indirect supervision. It is an adviser."

"Is it the policy for the paper to take sides in political matters?" Dr. McVey was asked.

"The bond issue is not a political matter."

"Is it not a political matter upon which the electorate will vote in the political election in November?" "It is not a political matter, not of parties, but a public policy question. The paper has a free right to say what it thinks."

"Does the editorial meet with your approval or disapproval?"

"I haven't read it. I don't know whether it does or not."

"If I read the editorial to you will you say whether or not you approve only endorse it?"

"I don't care to hear it."

As president of the university, Dr. McVey occupies the position with the Kentucky Kernel as does the publisher of a newspaper. The newspaper man who questioned Dr. McVey learned for the first time of a publisher who had nothing to say as to what goes in his publication.

"BEST FROSH TEAM I HAVE EVER SEEN"

Says Taylor, After Seeing Harvard and Yale Teams

Captain J. Taylor, who came from East Orange, N. J., to take up duties at the University of Kentucky in Reserve Officers training work, made a statement to the effect that the freshman football team of the university was the best he had ever seen in any school.

"I have seen numerous eastern college and university freshman football teams—Princeton, Yale and Harvard—but this team we have here this year is the best I ever saw."

Captain Taylor saw service in France as a captain during the World War and has high hopes for both the varsity and freshman squads this year.

TIGERS TO MAKE

of trouble. With a week in which to work, a great deal may be done and a number of faults will be ironed out before the team takes the field Saturday. Kirwan and King did sterling work in the Louisville game, they stopped everything that came their way, smearing interference and nailing the runner time and again. The flanks will not cause much worry but the line plunging of Long will be a menace. Sauer will be back in the game despite a broken nose. His work against the Cardinals was meritorious. All the other regulars are in good shape and the same lineup will probably start the game as faced Louisville. Smith, by his dashes off tackle and slashing end runs, made a good impression and may replace Hughes or Tracy before the game has progressed far.

The hopes of State followers were raised by the decisive victory over Louisville and by the smoothness with which Murphy's machine worked, despite the lack of innate strength of other years, and the pitiable lack of suitable reserve material. A large crowd will be out, augmented by several hundred rooters who will accompany the Tigers from Georgetown to cheer their favorites in their bid for a victory that has so long been denied them. Another section of the stadium is practically ready for use, but it is thought that it will not be necessary to open it until the Sevanee game.

The probable line-up:

Georgetown	L. E.	Kirwan
Baswell	L. T.	Rice
Garrett	L. G.	Van Meter
Wallace	C.	Sauer
Rabe	R. G.	Bickel
Tichner	R. T.	Portwood
Silvers	R. E.	King
Daniel	L. H.	Gregg
Hackman	L. H.	Hughes
Hackman	R. H.	Tracy
Long	F. B.	Sanders
Duval

CAT SCRAPS

One of our freshmen breezed in and asked Daddy Boles for a football suit, and replied to the question: "Have you had any athletic experience?" by saying he had worn athletic underwear for the last three years.

The girls are raising a howl about the discontinuance of basketball in the university. If they are putting the sport out because of the excess emotion it creates in the girls, they'd better let it remain, for girls is girls.
